REFUSES TO ANSWER, CASE IS DISMISSED

Mrs. Annie I. Nuttall Declined to Tell The Court With Whom She Dined.

When Mrs. Annie I. Nuttall, who is suing her husband for separate main-tenance, refused to tell the names of the men who she went to restaurants and cafes with, Judge Morse summarily and cafes with, Judge Morse summarily dismissed her case.

John T. Nuttall, recited as a witness in Judge C. W. Morse's court this morning the conduct of his wife toward him in support of his counterclaim alleging desertion and asking for the custody of their son, three years old, who seems to be the main contention between the parties.

Before they were married Mrs. Nuttall was a hairdresser by occupation, Nuttall testified. He objected to his wife working after they were married and she decided to stop. Shortly after their child was born, Mrs. Nuttall became dissatisfied. He declared, and wanted to go out working again. This led to trouble and she packed up her things and left his house, going to her mother's, taking the child with her. Her parents were unable to support her and the child, so she went to work again as a hairdresser.

Nuttall alleges that she began to go out with other men. While she was working at a well known dry goods store, Nuttall declares that the manager of the department took her out to dinner a number of times. He also followed her on one or two occasions while she was out with other men going to restaurants and other places. When he objected to her actions, she told him that it was none of his business, he testified.

Before she left him, Nuttall told how he had to get up in the morning and cook his own breakfast. Nuttall also

Before she left him, Nuttall told how he had to get up in the morning and cook his own breakfast. Nuttall also declares that his wife neglects their son in order to work out. They were married in Farmington September 21, 1904.

ROBBERY CHARGED TO FISK.

The county attorney has issued a complaint against J. B. Fisk, charging him with robbery. The complaint has been flied in Justice Hanks's court and Fisk will have a hearing there. It is alleged that he stole a gold watch and chain from Nick Butkovich on the night of Dec. I, when the Butkovich salóon was robbed. Fish was arrested in December with a man named W. S. Jacobson, on the charge of highway robbery but both were discharged at the preliminary hearing.

CHARGES DESERTION.

Heber Hertz flued suit in the Third district court against his wife, Mrs. Alice Hertz, Wednesday, charging her with deserting him. They were married in Oakland, Cal., on Sept. 6, 1906, and a year later, he declares, she left him, in Stockton, Cal. There are no children as an issue of the marriage.

BOUGHANS' ACTIONS DISMISSED.

BOUGHANS' ACTIONS DISMISSED.

Mrs. Elizabeth Boughan's complaint for divorce, and Joseph Boughan's counterclaim both charging desertion were dismissed by Judge C. W. Mocsa Wednesday afternoon after the case had been on trial all day. Neither side proved the allegations made in their complaint and counterclaim and they are to pay their own costs. They lived in Bingham until a year ago, where Mrs. Boughan conducted a boarding house and rented cottages. When their domestic troubles started, Mrs. Boughan moved to Salt Lake leaving her husband in Bingham. The main dispute was in regard to the property rights.

DAMAGES DOUBLED.

Mrs. Jane James obtained double damages Wednesday in her sult against Dr. J. E. Robertson, which was tried for the second time in Judge Ritchle's division of the district court. The jury returned a verdict of $3,500, as damages for majpractise in the treatment of her right eye. When the case was tried before, Mrs. James obtained a verdict of $1,750. Dr. Robertson was dissatisfied with the first trial and moved for a new trial, which he obtained and resulted in a larger verdict than before.

OLD SUIT CLOSED.

After pending in the courts for about a year, the case of Alexander E. Lee against C. H. Banks, former justice of the peace of Murray, was dismissed Wednesday by Judge T. D. Lewis on his own motion because Justice Banks' term had expired, and judgement could not be enforced. Lee brought the action to compel Banks to issue a complaint against C. H. Miller for violating the building ordinance, but before it could be heard by the court Justice Banks' term had expired and his successor had been elected.

NEVER SERVED.

Ellen Ives brought suit against L. P. Lund in the Third district court this morning to set aside a judgment of $44.84, which was obtained by Lund against her. It is set forth that the judgment was entered in Justice of the Peace C. F. Durand's court in Murray, and that no service of any kind was made on Mrs. Ives.

HUSBANDS ARE DISMISSED.

HUSBANDS ARE DISMISSED.

There were two failure to provide cases in the criminal division of the city court this morning. Alma C. Smith was arralgned on the charge of failing to provide for his minor children. He pleaded not guilty and the case was set for March 7. He was released on his own recognizance, as it was shown he had given money to his family recently. The case against James H. Young, was dismissed on motion, as it appeared Young has been providing for his family.

RUMOR OF BIG DEAL.

Holmes Residence Said to be in View

An unsubstantiated rumor was current in this city Wednesday evening rent in this city weanesday evening that the historic structure on the south-west corner of South Temple and State streets either had been sold or was in process of sale to unnamed eastern capitalists who intend to creet a big apartment house there to cost a large sum of money. vantageous and suitable for such an enterprise that the move is being be-lieved.

The property has a frontage of 165 feet each on the two streets, though the valuation is based on South Temple street values, so it is thus estimated at 3300 per front foot for the site alone. The fine residence there is the well known home of Col. E. F. Holmes.

The actual cost of the residence is estimated at $110,000, with furniture that was valued at $45,000, a vertiable palace for the times in which the house was built.

palace for the times in which the house was built.

The Church secured possession of the property by paying Mrs. Amelia Young $10,000 for her life interest. The government confiscated it at the time of the crusade, during the marshalship of Frank Dyer, along with the Tithing yard and other possessions of the Church; but later restored all of the properties to their rightful owner. During this time the residence was rented for various purposes by Receiver Henry Lawrence, the Keeley institute occupying it for some time, and for a while it lay idle and unoccupied.

Finally Col. E. F. Holmes, six years ago, bought the corner with its valuable contents from the Church, through President Snow, and has since retained it as a residence when he and Mrs. Holmes chance to be in this city. The colonel has built in connection with the residence a valuable art gallery, and private garage, besides refurnishing and decorating the house in a costly manner, as he is abundantly able to do so. The colonel is reputed to have paid $50,000 under what was then considered a market price, "a very good buy," as the realty men said, the reported figure being in the immediate neighborhood of $50,000, for the entire property. If the place is sold, it is not believed the buildings will cut any figure in the price paid, as these will have to be cleared away as so much wreckage, and the furniture will be removed by the consignor. On account of the historic associations of this property, much interest is manifested in its disposition.

the delight of the usual array of "bench warmers" this morning, when he played the part of attorney and conducted his defense in a clever way to the charge of highway robbery.

The complaint alleges that Smith, on the night of Dec. 23, "strong-armed" W. P. Mahoney and took the latter's wallet containing $45. Smith has been in jail since Dec. 23, as he was arrested on that date by Patrolman Burton.

Mahoney testified that Smith came up

Mahoney testified that Smith came up behind him about 11 o'clock at night, seized him by the throat, snatched the money and fled. He said the assault occurred on First South street between the Salt Lake theater and Main street, and that Smith ran up Broadway and disappeared through a hole in the fence. Mahoney declared he recognized Smith by a scar on his face.

On cross-examination Smith got Mahoney pretty badly tangled up and when the latter began to show signs of irritation, Smith calmiy said: "Now, mandoan ye git yo'sef excited. Gist take things nice an' cool an' hit'll be all-right." behind him about 11 o'clock at

MAD MELBA KNEELS IN SNOW AND SINGS

Mrs. Charles Sykes, Believed to be Insane, Is Arrested by Police Outside Temple Gates.

Kneeling in the snow and singing a plaintive Indian love song in the tongue of her ancestors, Mrs. Charles Sykes, a descendant of the Cherokee tribe, was arrested shortly after 8 o'clock this morning in the shadow of the temple by Police Sergeant John J. Roberts. The woman's mind was unbalanced and she will probably be returned this afternoon to the Provo asylum, from which institution she was released a few days ago, after having been confined for more than two months.

Worry attendant apon the arrest of her daughter in Nevada on a murder charge is believed by the police to have unbalanced the woman's mind. The girl is said to be awaiting trial at the present time in a jall at Elko, Nov.

It was a drawn-featured, strange-eyed woman that knelt in a sort of song prayer this morning on upper Main street almost directly in front of the east entrance to the temple grounds. She was apparently oblivious to the throng that gathered at a respectful distance to hear her supplication. The wild, fantastic Cherokee composition was followed by a hymn and then the weird woman of the plains sang "Annie Laurie."

It was not the effort of a novice. No one in the crowd that had paused to listen knew that the singer, "Mad Melba," as she is known to the police, had studied with the masters, but the throng stood fascinated by the voice and the feeling interpreted by the singer. The notes from the mad woman's throat came clear and sweet. But the swan song, as it were, was never finished, for a big policeman interrupted the offertory and hustled the woman away to jail. of her ancestors, Mrs. Charles Sykes, a

At police headquarters the woman surprised the desk sergecent and station officers by her mentality. She spoke French, Spanish, Cherokee and good English with an ease that caused the minions to gasp. She was not bolsterous and protested her sanity, but did not appear averse to going to jail. She was led away to the women's ward singing a snatch from "The Last Rose of Summer."

Only yesterday Mrs. Sykes cafled upon Chief of Police Barlow and Matron Gifford to thank them for the kindly way in which she had been treated during her previous incarceration. She appeared to be rational and expressed an intention of going to Nevada to see her daughter, who she said was awaiting trial on a charge of murder. The woman has a husband in Salt Lake. He is said to have been arrested a few months ago on a charge of assault but was released because the woman was unable to testify against him on account of her demented condition.

an initiation fee of $12 will be charged all applicants for membership, and all who sign the roll before that date will escape this fee, paying only the monthly dues of $2.

Mr. Collett says. "A good many manufacturers throughout the state complain that the people do not patronize them as they deserve to be patronized, yet some of these same manufacturers do not join the Manufacturers' association, which is established primarily to overcome the very condition of which these men complain. The association is here to boost Utah products, and to educate and influence, as far as it lies in its power, the people to support home institutions. In the face of this fact, many manufacturers are derelict in lending their support to the association and thereby helping on in the good work of boossting for Utah."

The following is part of a letter the secretary is sending out to concerns in various parts of the state:

"Your attention is called to the fast increasing membership of the Manufacturers' Association of Utah. It would be to the interest of your firm to be identified with this organization. Many reasons could be given, but we will name only a few. First, the dues are only $2 a month, and the advertising done by the association for its members is worth many times that amount. Second, organized effort is one of the main-springs of success in any direction. You will have more than 100 big firms boosting your business the minute your name is enrolled as a member. Amendment Requiring Railroads

To Accept All Shipments. Washington, Feb. 3.-At the instance of individual shippers, Representative of individual shippers, Representative Richardson of Alabama, a member of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce, has presented in that committee an amendment to the railroad bill of Representative Townsend, the administration measure, providing that railroads be required to handle freight shipments over any connecting line. viding that railroads be to handle freight shipments over any connecting line.

Under the amendment the initial carrier would be obligated to carry a shipment to its destination without unloading, whether the initial road had any exchange arrangement with the connecting line or not. The amendment would operate in favor of many small roads that have no traffic arrangements with trunk lines, and that frequently, Mr. Richardson says, are deprived of revenue by the larger roads to prevent their upbuilding.

LOCAL MARKETS

Local commission houses report quite an amount of goods on hand with comparatively few buyers, as in some unexplaind way, consumers ap-pear to be so well supplied that they are not doing as much purchasing as usual. As the head of one commis-sion house says, "People seem to be living on vegetables, and the simpler kind at that." Receipts from the coast have been delayed by the damage to the Lucin cut-off, but these are now arriving. Ranch eggs are down from 50 to 45 cents; oranges have taken a corresponding descent down the scale of a nickle, selling now at 30, 40 and 45 cents. There are no changes meats. The consumption of oleomar-garine has increased so remarkably that dealers along the row believe that as between the consumption of that and butter, it is a stand-off. Half a dozen commission houses and any number of retailers have taken out a dozen commission houses and any number of retailers have taken out licenses to sell oleomargarine. The local creamery men affect to view the situation with loftly indifference, and say they are not at all sorry, as they are now able to ship so much more of their blutter to the Pacific coast at remunerative prices. But Salt Lake dealers are remarking that in March the fresh spring grass will be much in evidence in California, when the cows will all be giving what is called June grass butter and plenty of it so the need of butter from Utah-and short weight at that, will not be felt. Then, it is believed the price will come down. Last week, the supply of oleomargarine was short; but dealers say now there is plenty on hand. Utah turkeys are arriving on the market, and are very good; but owing to the high price, 32 cents retail, there is not much of a demand. Corn is not strong, owing to large supplies on hand ordered for the sheepmen who decline to accept the same, now that the danger of starvation of their flocks is passed. A LIVING DINOSAUR.

A LIVING DINOSAUR.

Somewhere in the north of Rhodesia (if statements of the natives are reliable) a mighty dinosaur lives, moves and has his being, rivalling in his proportions and terrifying appearance anything that paleonthologists have as yet brought to light. South African zoologists, it seems, dismissed as beneath their notice the account of this reptile which Herr Hagenbeck recently gave to the world; but the definite statement made on the subject by the Bulawayo Chronicle corroborates Herr Hagenbeck in a remarkable manner. A representative of that journal has interrogated natives on the spot, and has shown them sketches of the dinosaur, drawn from Herr Hagenbeck's description, which they affirm in a most positive manner is a very close representation of the creature they have seen disporting himself near a lake near the River Lunga. Until this living dinosaur came above the zoological horizon it was a fairly well established fact that the last of the race was gathered to his fathers not more recently than the year 400,000 B. C., and hitherto our only knowledge of the fascinating animal has been based on his fossilized remains.—London News.

THE BARRIERS DOWN.

THE BARRIERS DOWN.

John Ford, who, as the English husband of Miss Cavendish-Bentinck, is related to the Ogden Millses, the Maturin Livingstons and many other noted New York families, talked, at a quiet dinner at the Plaza, about English society.

"New York society," said Mr. Ford, "is really more exclusive now than that of London. In London, last season, an episode was narrated that illustrated well the breaking down of the old barriers.

"Society is going to the bow-wows," grumbled a young marquis at a Piccadilly club.

"What's the matter now?" a friend inquired.

"Money Lender's wife at reception Belgrave Square this afternoon," said the marquis, 'wearing all my wife's emeralds."
